

Destination Expert

Our team is looking for qualified travel professionals to design tailor-made tour packages to South America.

Responsibilities:

- Design the optimal trip itinerary for each client based on their interests and budget.
- Maintain and drive client communication, including timely follow-ups.
- Clearly communicate with partners and internal network.
- Review all booked client trips for accurate trip programming.
- Act as a personal consultant for each client throughout the planning and travel experience and build strong client relationships.
- Check in with travelers during their trip and when they return home to ensure a satisfying experience.

Required experience:

- Native English Speaker
- Bachelor's degree or higher from a recognized English-speaking University
- At least 2 years of travel sales and or consulting experience related to South America
- Very high level of verbal and written communication
- Competence and openness to using technology to facilitate your work
- A passion for exploration and sharing this passion with your clients
- Heightened attention to detail in a fast-paced environment

Advantages of joining the SA team:

- Assuming you have high-speed internet and can work in North America time-zones, you have total flexibility to work from anywhere in the world.
- Beyond your introduction into the company, you enjoy broad autonomy and independence. You also have a mentor available for guidance and support to help you succeed.
- We provide and encourage FAM “familiarization” trip opportunities to South America for continued education of our principal destinations.
- Despite being virtual, we support a thriving company community via our online platform and annual summits which take place in a different South America destination each year.
- We provide additional compensation perks including stipends for co-working space and more.
- We’re a relatively young (founded 2010), fast-growing company that will be looking for high-level positions to fill in the future and we’d love you to be a part of that growth.
